STAFF SHARING—AMBER

MUSCLE MEMORY OF GRIEF

It's about this time of year, when the fall weather starts to arrive, when my body reminds me, again, of the grief I experienced seven years ago when my husband Aaron and I lost our son, Augustine (Gus). He was stillborn on October 24, 2015.

It's something about the chill in the air and the rustling of leaves and the added layers of clothing that, even if I am not consciously thinking about it, grief just finds its way back to me. And, at times, I find myself in a 'mood' that, although I can't quite explain and have no scientific evidence of, must be the muscle memory of grief.

For the season you feel this muscle memory, I'd like to give you this poem by Lana Rafaela:

I think it's brave that you get up in the morning even if your soul is weary and your bones ache for rest.

I think it's brave that you keep on living even if you don't know how to anymore.

I think it's brave that you push away the waves rolling in every day and you decide to fight yet again.

I know there are days when you feel like giving up, but I think it's brave that you never do.

Some other beautiful writings:

- Pebbles at Another's Feet//A Poem on Grieving S. Mary Vianney
- The following quotes from my son's patron saint, St. Augustine of Hippo:
  - "God loves each of us as if there were only one of us."
  - Our hearts were made for you, O Lord, and they are restless until they rest in you."

If you find yourself experiencing grief, I am praying for you! You are always welcome in the parish office to chat and at the Grief Group.

GOSPEL REFLECTION—SEPTEMBER 17

“The Lord is kind and merciful, slow to anger, and rich in compassion.”

The message for today’s readings is forgiveness. As God is willing to forgive us when we are sorry, so must we be willing to forgive others. In a family there are many times when we ask and receive forgiveness. The little things are easy to forgive. Sometimes it is difficult to forgive. Peter is trying to draw a line over which we do not have to forgive. But Jesus does not agree. He says that we must always forgive the person who wronged us. The gospel story shows the master being very compassionate with his servant. In forgiving all of the debt the master is willing to start over and gives the servant a chance to start over. On the other hand, the servant who is forgiven is not willing to forgive another servant who owes him money. The master becomes angry when he finds out. He warns the servant that if he does not forgive, God will not forgive him. Today we are reminded that we must forgive others if we want to be forgiven by God. This week be aware of the times that you need to forgive someone. Are you able to forgive completely? Pray for the gift of being able to forgive from your heart.

S. Betty Larson, Pastoral Ministry

We ask this in the name of your Son, Jesus and the Holy Spirit, now and forever. Amen.*
